Imran: record minutes, action items, assignments and internal deadlines.

Michael: coordinate submissions, communicate with instructors and advisers, and check course requirements.

Working expectations

Share the workload fairly and complete assigned work by agreed deadlines. Attend and participate in meetings. Give advance notice of absences or delays, respect different views and offer constructive feedback. Maintain academic integrity and take responsibility for assigned work.

Communication and records

Meet mainly in person at McMaster, with virtual meetings when needed. Use Discord and iMessage for daily communication and scheduling, SharePoint for documents, and Git for code. Keep decisions, tasks and deadlines accessible to every member.

Availability

Account for classes, exams, employment, commuting, religious observances and personal commitments when scheduling work. Communicate reduced availability early and redistribute tasks as needed while keeping the overall workload fair.

Resolving issues

Raise problems promptly and discuss the specific behaviour or task. Let everyone involved explain their position and agree on a response. Seek help from the instructor or project adviser if the team cannot resolve the issue.
